The Shield

Volume VIII

North Scott
Community High School
Eldridge, Iowa

Take a step down this hall and travel through these pages to see the achievements of 900 Lancers. Each page holds an experience to be relived and cherished.

These memories are what remain from the surprise, suspense, and tears of a crowning, the fun in planning a club dance or activity, the work and sweat put into a struggle to determine a loss or gain, the frustration of an F or the happiness of an A, the No. 1 contest rating, or the delight of just being together with friends.

Those of us who will not return will never forget the close friendships developed through working together. However, those of us who will remain can look forward to the activities and excitement of the following years.

ACTIVITIES

Having a part-time job at the library keeps Ursula busy.

Ursula Adapts

Germany's Ursula Schulz was another "first" for North Scott. Sponsored by the Student Council, Ursula, being the school's first foreign exchange student, arrived early in September to spend the next 11 months with the Dana Elmegreen family.

Her daily walks to school made Ursula known for her vigor.

Besides sewing, Ursula is also an avid knitter.

Ursula was in constant contact with German family and friends.

Active in class discussion, Ursula gives a talk in one of her classes.

Ursula enjoyed playing with "her little brother," Danny.

to American Customs

It didn't take Ursula long to become adjusted to the American ways of life and also to the ways of her "adopted" school.

During the homecoming festivities, she enthusiastically sold booster buttons and helped to paint the streets, though she personally thinks the game of football is "too rough."

Coming from a German city, Ursula liked living on an Iowa farm. She claims there is more room and it's not so noisy.

Though Ursula wasn't able to get to know everyone personally, she was well-known by nearly everyone. Her daily mile-long walks to and from school made her outstanding for her physical stamina, or maybe she just made the rest of the students aware of the lack of theirs.

Students at North Scott hope Ursula has enjoyed and benefited from her stay in the United States as much as this community has from her. She has invited anyone who is able to come and visit her home in Germany. Her address is 645 Hanau, CORNICELIUSSTR. 37, and her phone number is 24275.

During an aud, Ursula, dressed in her traditional costume, showed slides of her homeland.

Student Council Plans

Hosting North Scott's first foreign exchange student, Ursula Schulz, was the highlight of this year's Student Council activities. Plans were also made for an exchange student for next year.

Sponsoring the annual Homecoming festivities was just one of the many undertakings of the Council. Through magazine sales and the selling of booster buttons, money was raised to purchase the robe used in the crowning of the Homecoming queen; the Christmas tree; cultural pictures to be hung in the lobby, halls, and cafeteria; and to finance all other projects.

Members represented North Scott at the State Student Council Conference held at Ames and at the Iowa Student Council Convention held at Newman of Sterling. Participation in a Quint-City Student Congress Act enabled visitations to and from eleven area schools to promote better school relations.

A constitution revision to elect Council members by homerooms was proposed. At present five members from each class elected at large plus the four class presidents comprise the Student Council.

Decorating the Christmas tree are officers John Moffit, vice-president; Gayle Keppy, treasurer; Pam Madden, president; Marilyn Schnekloth, secretary.

In Spite of Team,

The team rolls out the red carpet for the top five candidates.

The knighted captains of the team are commanded to win the Homecoming game.

In spite of the cold, enthusiasm runs high when the Lancers score a touchdown.

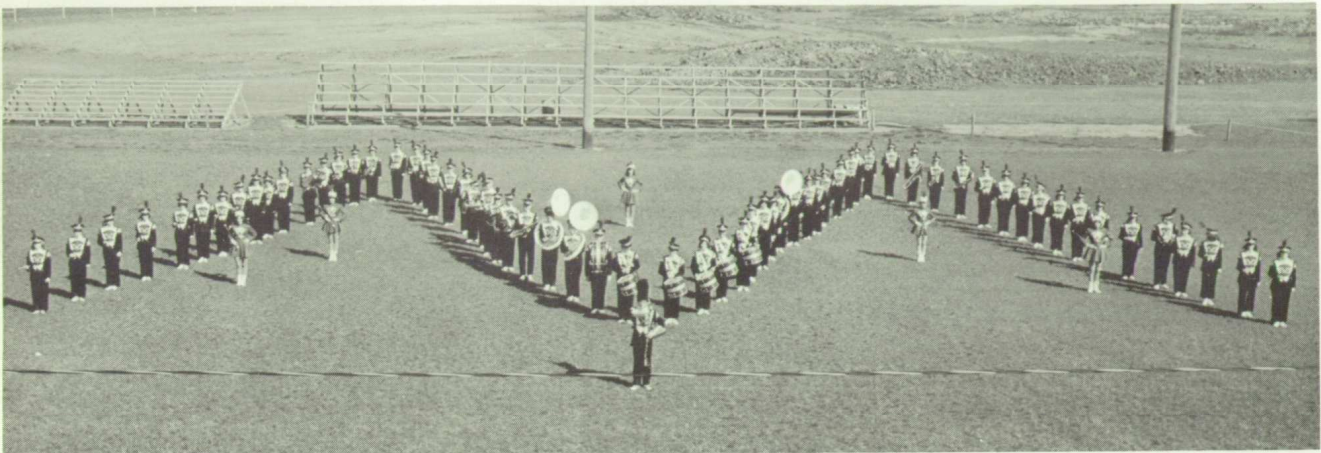

Royalty, and Spirit Tradition Breaks

The burning of the bonfire a night early by pranksters, spurred students, parents, and teachers to work together to make a bigger pile than before in a burst of school spirit. But not enough spirit carried over to the game the next night as the tradition of never losing a Homecoming game was broken. The confident air of the gaily decorated gym under the theme of "Field of Victory" reminded the class of '66 to work harder to make their class one to be proud of.

Iowa Valley proved "stronger than dirt" even with the presence of the Lancer mascot.

Band Marches to

The North Scott marching band comes into marching formation. They provide entertainment for football fans during the half-time show for all of the season's home games.

A quick warm-up always helps these twirlers to perform better.

Anticipating the drum major's whistle, these band members get ready to go.

Top Honors

Tears of happiness and a feeling of accomplishment swept through the North Scott marching band members as they earned a No. 1 rating in competition with 18 schools at the regional marching band contest.

The fine performance of the band was evident in their other achievements. At the Miss Iowa Pageant Parade in Davenport the band carried home first-place honors including a trophy.

The 64 members, 5 twirlers, and 1 drum major also marched in the LeClaire Riveresta Parade, the Veteran's Day Parade, and the Balloon Parade both held in Davenport. At every home football game the Lancer band featured an exciting half-time show. They also performed a concert at Davenport's Mississippi Valley Teen Fair.

Practice begins in the summer months and continues through the fall until the last event has been entered. The person responsible for working up routines, developing style, and creating desire is the director, Arthur Schultz.

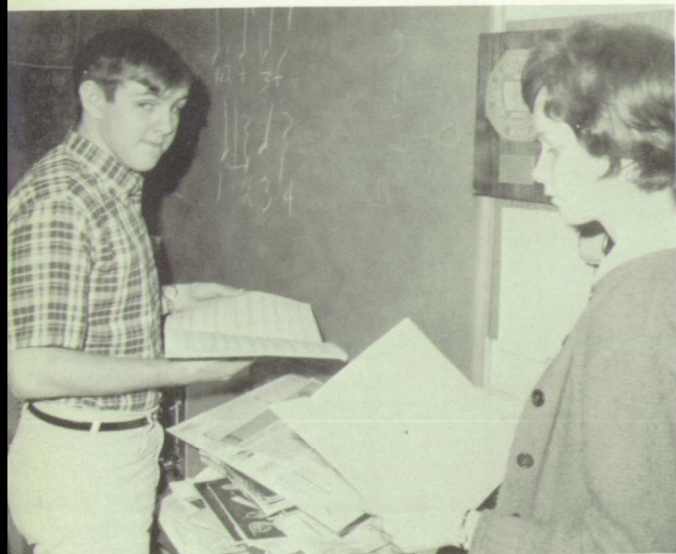

Attiring oneself in the complicated band uniform is more than a one-man job.

Going through one of their routines are drum major Gary Anderson and majorettes Jackie Taber, Peggy Keehner, Janis Feldpausch, Jackie Blanche, and Jeanne DeSchepper.

Director Art Schultz Strikes Up the Band

Stan Curry and Jean Danielson look over new music after receiving I ratings on their solos at the state music contest held in Maquoketa.

Director Arthur Schultz "struck up the band" January 9 showing that their hours of practice were not in vain. The band played 14 numbers for their winter concert.

February 19 the band participated in the Pleasant Valley Invitational Band Festival with four other schools. Each band was criticized on its performance. The day came to a climax with the mass band concert under the direction of Dr. Eugene Rousseau from Indiana University.

The band's spring tour began with a home concert March 27. The next two days North Scott halls and classrooms were minus seventy-four students as the band traveled to Camanche, St. Mary's, Morrison, and Fulton. Twelve selections were performed at each of the high schools visited.

Band member Stan Curry was selected to perform with the All-State Band, November 26 and 27. The band is comprised of the finest high school musicians in Iowa.

Contest, Concert, and Tour

The A cappella choir is composed of sophomores, juniors and seniors under the direction of J. Robert Oberg. Jan Evans was elected president of the group.

The second semester brought Tom Mooney, student teacher, and preparation for contest, the spring concert, and a tour.

The choir received a II rating at the contest held at Mt. Vernon April 23. "Die Mit Tranen Saen" and "On God, and Not on Human Trust" were sung by the choir.

Halls and classrooms were empty April 3 when an exchange concert was presented at DeWitt Central High School.

The Freshman Chorus joined the A cappella in the spring concert performance April 24.

"Stick boy" Howay can't understand what Mrs. Larue is looking for in the rough section of town.

A little girl slips past the gate keeper and over the garden wall to play with a lonely, rich boy. She is quickly shooed out by his mother as "trash." It just so happens that the little girl's mother is a witch, and an experienced one. She takes her revenge by leaving Mrs. Howard V. Larue III with a stick boy who looks just like her son. Meanwhile, her real son is off to a life of crime in the Shantyland Pool Hall Lunchroom. When Mother grows suspicious of the imposter's perfection, she sets out to reclaim her real son. In her attempt to take back the boy, she crosses the same little girl who puts the finger on her. A stick is put in her place, leaving Mrs. Larue to take up the role of dishwasher for the gang. As Mother comes to appreciate the sterling qualities of an ordinary roughneck, she is happy enough to take the boy back on his own terms, and to adopt the little witch-girl.

"Your boy is just a stick!"

Who's the rough and tough mob leader?

"Just you wait!"

Wild West Show Comes to Town

Annie steals the show from Frank with her spectacular performance on the motorbike.

All the color and excitement of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show came alive in the spring production of "Annie Get Your Gun."

Dancing Indians, rugged cowboys, and sharpshooters provided action-packed entertainment. But the story was of Annie, played by Donna Robertson, her rise to fame and her headstrong desire to beat anyone with her skillful marksmanship.

Thinking that her success would attract the love and admiration of Frank Butler, played by Gary Rochau, Annie soon found it had the opposite effect. Frank, who had enjoyed top billing as the greatest sharpshooter in the world, was crushed and enraged at being beaten by a girl and joined a rival show.

When the two shows run into financial difficulties, a merger was considered which raised the question of who would get top billing, Annie Oakley or Frank Butler? The two decided to "shoot it out" and Annie learned that "you can't get a man with a gun."

Annie learns that "you can't get a man with a gun."

Gaily costumed Indian dancers, Elizabeth Porter, Steve Engler, Liz Keller, Peg Keehner, Dale Keppy, Don Keehner, Pat Hinkle, and Drew Howard, delight their audience.

The drama department selected Donna Robertson as best actress of the year.

Patty Kroeger, eighth grader, was given special recognition for her dramatic ability.

Speech and Drama

Elizabeth Porter, Linda Meyer, Pam Dismer, Shirley Wiese, Peggy Keehner, Bev Miller, Kevin Roukey, Walter Hunt, LeRoy Doyle, Steve Engler, Dale Keppy, Rick Stoltenberg, and Tom Hunt were recognized for their cooperation and ability in dramatics.

The most valuable speaker award was presented to Donovan Peeters.

Paul Looney, Donna Robertson, Janis Feldpausch, Zelda Grell, Pat Hinkle, Lorene Kuhl, Mary Lou Auliff, Elneta Randolph, Lorna Randolph, Jennifer Mohr, Cindy Baetke, Jean Hunt, Peggy Keehner, and Donovan Peeters were awarded speech letters.

Students Earn Awards

Also for their dramatic cooperation and ability Julie Stoltenberg, Sandy Kirby, Barb Drumm, Liz Keller, Cindy Baetke, Ed Schneckloth, Drew Howard, Dave Moseley, Lynn Howard, Tod Evans, Jean Hunt, Janis Feldpausch, and Sharon Marten were honored.

Quick-Thinking Debaters Study Proposal

Acquiring the ability to express themselves clearly and precisely, the debate squad met with a very successful year.

"Resolved: That the federal government should adopt a program of compulsory arbitration in the basic industries," was this year's topic.

David Kroeger and Donovan Peeters debated the affirmative position while Jean Hunt and Paul Looney took the negative side.

The debate squad experienced its first contest competition at Dubuque. At this contest thirteen schools competed including schools from eastern Iowa and western Illinois.

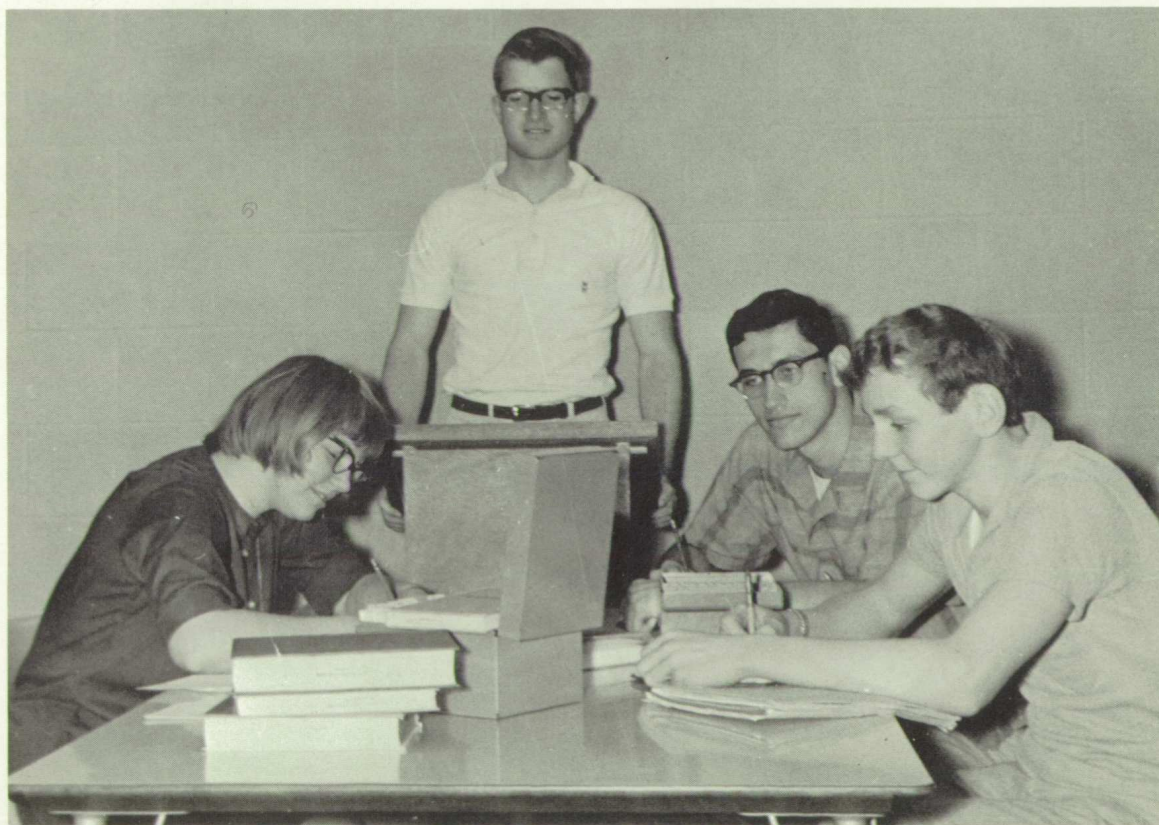

St. Mary's High School in Clinton set the stage for the district contest of speech and debate. For this contest they used the cross-examination style which allows more freedom on the part of the debaters for questioning than the constructive speeches and rebuttal method.

North Scott was one of the top three schools who earned the right to go on to the state contest in Newton. There the squad tied for sixth. Sixteen schools qualified to compete in this contest.

The schools involved were divided into two sections with each debating five rounds lasting approximately one hour.

John Schafer, John Kane, and Margaret Massey help the squad gather information for the topic.

The debate team includes Jean Hunt, Paul Looney, Donovan Peeters, and David Kroeger.

Cosmetology Club Features Speakers

Representatives from Stewart School of Hair Styling spoke to the Cosmetology club and put on demonstrations at their meetings throughout the year. The girls learned hair care and styling techniques. Members were also encouraged to become professional beauticians.

Tom Erps is puzzled by the resemblance of Cindy Baetke's hair-do to a Christmas tree.

Linda Meyer

Linda Meyer received the scholarship given by the FTA club. Money for the scholarship was raised through bake sales and concession stands at basketball games.

As a member of FTA Barb Engel helps Kathy Hirl with a sewing problem. Barb substituted for Mrs. Glendena Heiman for one period to get a taste of teaching.

Invites Faculty to Tea

Elementary and high school teachers enjoyed the tea sponsored by the Future Teachers club.

Marilyn Schnekloth was elected historian at the FTA Southeast District Convention held in Columbus Junction. It was the first time North Scott was represented with a district officer. Other members attending the convention were Mary Anne Boland, Linda Long, and Bev Miller.

Officers were president, Bev Miller; vice-president, Linda Meyer; secretary, Linda Long; historian, Carol Danielson; treasurer, Barb Engel. Talks on the phases of a teaching career were presented at the meetings.

Scholarships

Girls interested in nursing careers were active in the Future Nurses club. The club toured Moline Lutheran and Moline Public hospitals. Speakers at meetings included a physical therapist and a Davenport fireman who demonstrated mouth to mouth respiration. The members made ditty bags, small denim pull bags which hold the small accessories of those in the hospital, for the service men in Viet Nam.

Concession stands help to finance scholarships.

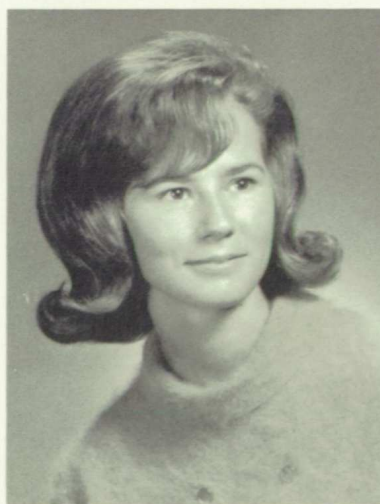

Elaine Kundel

The Future Nurses club awarded $100 scholarships to Elaine Kundel and Margaret Keehner who will be entering nursing schools. Popcorn ball sales and concession stands at basketball games financed the scholarships.

Margaret Keehner

Betty Henningsen was awarded a $200 March of Dimes scholarship to finance her studies in nursing at St. Luke's School of Nursing, Davenport. The scholarship was presented on the basis of academic achievement, personal qualifications, professional promise, and financial need.

Style Show Ends

Linda Hamann models the popular granny gown for the "Just For Fun" spoke.

"A go-go" Sharon Marten and Eileen Buckley wear dresses just right for dancing.

Madonna Strobbe is "On Parade" in her smart Easter outfit.

Year's FHA Activities

Climaxing the year's FHA activities was the annual style show held May 6. A "Wheel of Fashion" turned as girls in home economics and Sewing I and II modeled outfits they made during the year. Members of FHA wrote the script for the show, planned and made decorations and scenery, and served refreshments.

Spokes of the wheel of fashion represented activities in a girl's life--"Downtown," "A go-go," "Children's Fair," "Just For Fun," and "On Parade."

FHA members were busy the rest of the year, too. During FHA week the girls helped teachers and janitors with their work. At the slumber party not many got to sleep. Some of the girls attended the district meeting and the annual leadership conference with their adviser, Mrs. Glendena Heiman.

Girls clean the trophy case as one of their jobs during FHA week.

Nancy Stahmer is ready to go downtown on a shopping expedition.

Jeanne DeSchepper is awaiting an evening party.

The chapter is headed by Dick Wilson, vice-president; Glen Keppy, president; Mr. Marsh, adviser; Daryl Claussen, treasurer; Dale Keppy, reporter. Keith Krambeck, secretary, and Don Strobbe, sentinel, are absent.

Barrow Show Honors, Convention

Keith Krambeck was awarded the Iowa Farmer Degree, and he was also the winner of the DeKalb award for being the outstanding senior boy in voag.

Glen Keppy and Harold Paustian received gold awards in the sub-district FFA speech contest. Harold won his award in creed speaking while Glen received his in extemporaneous speaking.

Trips Make FFA Year Success

FFA members under the new adviser, William Marsh, enjoyed an eventful and fruitful year in the North Scott Chapter. Good participation along with the new leadership of Mr. Marsh, supplemented to make the 1965-66 year a success.

Included in their planned activities were the annual FFA-FHA hayrack ride and the parent-son banquet. The Future Farmers also attended several shows and were well represented at the barrow show held at New Liberty in which three other chapters attended. North Scott took 18 out of the top 20 places.

Several chapter members attended the National Future Farmers of America Convention in Kansas City and another delegation was sent to the National Dairy Cattle Congress and competed in the judging team contest.

The chapter raised and fed out hogs to gain experience and to make a profit.

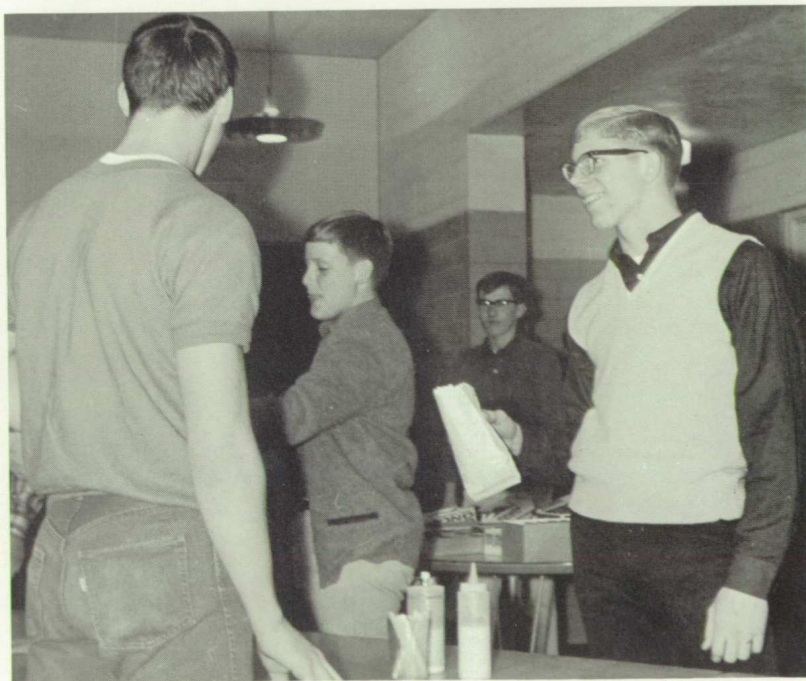

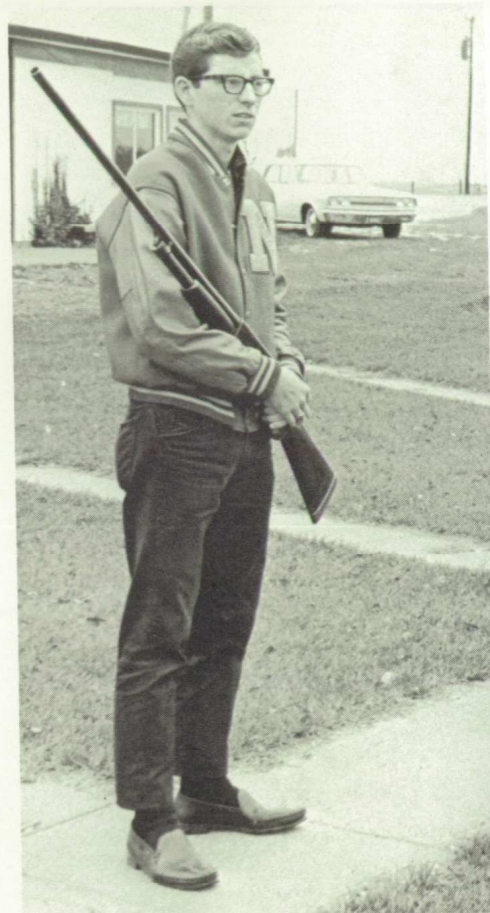

The foundation award winners were Merle Keppy, farm mechanics; Ted Claeys, crop farming; Ed Schneckloth, livestock farming; Bob Dittmer, home improvement; Harold Paustian, greenhand.

Sportsman's Goals: Marksmanship, Safety

With the right to bear arms comes the responsibility of using them safely. An important aspect of the new Sportsman's club program is the hunter safety classes which are held one night a week for four weeks.

Courses in basic rifle or shot gun marksmanship may be taken after completing the hunter safety course. In order to learn through participation, supervised competitive shooting is held at the Eldridge Sportsman's Club. The rifle range which the boys built themselves was financed through dues and class fees.

North Scott was represented in the Junior National Sectional Rifle Tournament at Geneseo, Illinois by Hank Gertz, Dennis Schmidt, Mike Hirl, Bob Tuftee, and Dave Wuestenberg.

Members of the club were in charge of the concession stand at a basketball game. They also sponsored a roller skating party to raise money.

Eugene Moore, Stan Curry, and Hank Gertz check their shot gun marksmanship.

Officers Eugene Moore, David Wuestenberg, Hank Gertz, Russ Kreiter, and Stan Curry compare scores on the rifle range.

Club Activities Sends Class

The newspaper drives were a large contributor toward their goal.

Paul Mohr struggles to tie the newspapers.

South of the Border

Bake sales, newspaper drives, candy sales, car washes, and coat checks sped the Spanish club on their way to Mexico.

Students taking Spanish II put their textbook knowledge to use on the trip. An understanding of our neighbors south of the border was gained while the club toured the sites. The beaches of Acapulco, the rustic village of Taxco, the harrowing taxi rides of Mexico City, the flowers of the Floating Gardens of Xochimilco, the splendor of Our Lady of Guadalupe, and the excitement of the bullfights will remain in their memories forever.

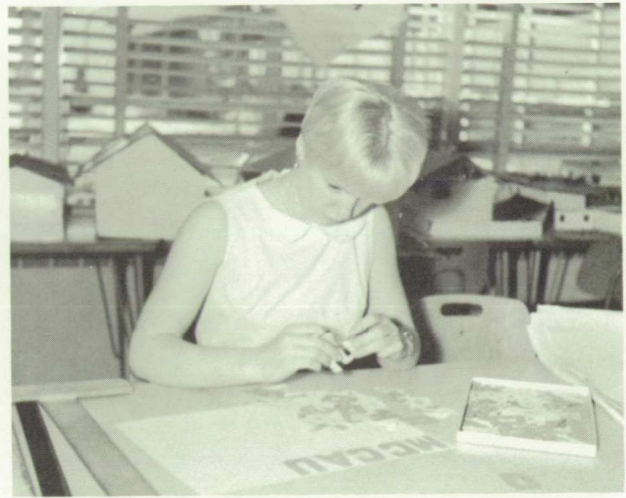

The procession before the first sight of El Toro is most impressive.

Talents at Fair

Art club members entered their best work in the Art Fair held at the State College of Iowa April 22 and 23. Those students were Susette Fruechte-nicht, Pat Gast, Calvin Hesse, Jim Turner, Darold Stichter, and Rick Roller. Art professors at the college criticized their work.

Allen Litscher was elected president of the club, and other officers were Rick Roller, vice-president; Pat Hinrichs, secretary; and Kathy Litscher, treasurer. At each meeting members reported on different phases of art. Money making projects for a scholarship fund included the sale of signs, posters, and paintings.

Concluding the year's activities was an exhibition of their works at the high school.

Industrial Arts Members Help with 'Capture' Decorations

Without the help of Industrial Arts Club members and George Kelley, adviser, the junior-senior girls could not have put their decorating ideas for the Bachelor Capture into action. Patiently they drew up plans and built a bridge, a round table, and two towers to help create a Medieval atmosphere.

Hours to Publication

Many journalism students played dual roles, working on both the LANCE and SHIELD staffs. For this reason these students were kept very busy. Deadlines had to be met, pictures taken, and copy written. The end of the school year found the department editors still hard at work.

Mary Hulleman proved to be more than an advisor as she often stepped in as photographer and laid out pages to meet that final deadline.

Hard at work are Charlotte Kraft and Pam Madden, editors.

LaDonna Richardson, Connie Ney, and Pam Dismer work on lay-outs for the academic section.

Sixth period C-10 buzzes with activity as journalism students work to put out an issue of the LANCE every two weeks.

Students are reporters and have assigned beats in addition to the special events they cover each week.

Copyreading, headline writing, proofreading galleys, and distribution are handled by all the class members.

Editorship changes at the semester and co-editors each nine weeks. Elizabeth Porter and Pam Dismer worked with Steve Engler the first semester, and LaDonna Richardson and John Kohler worked with Elizabeth the second semester. Assignments and newspaper lay-outs are made by the editors.

Jane Lage was North Scott's editor for the High News and Views pages of the SUNDAY TIMES-DEMOCRAT. Her job entailed writing a feature story each week.

Patti Frye, Doris Kincaid, Marilyn Schnekloth, Deanna Oster, and Barb Wulf compose the varsity squad. The junior and senior girls try out for positions in the spring and are selected by a panel of teachers and senior varsity cheerleaders.

The gym was turned into the land of Camelot by the junior-senior girls for the Bachelor Capture, the annual girl-ask-boy dance. A castle wall, complete with a drawbridge entrance, was built around the gym floor. Peasants and knights added to the Medieval atmosphere.

A replica of King Arthur's round table was used by King Dave Moseley. His court included Larry Busch, Jan Evans, Lyndon Koberg, and John Moffit. Also selected as runners-up by the senior class were Dave Mohr, Tom Erps, Dick Blanche, Bill Holland, and Tim Carlin. The entire student body voted for the king and his court.

The annual awards assembly to honor students in academic and extra-curricular activities was held May 9.

Bookkeeping awards were also given to Bev Spies, Stan Curry, Allen Litscher, Carol Kirby, Linda Hamann, Sharon Krenz, Pam Madden, Carol Paustian, and Donna Robertson.

Eileen Peekenschneider, the recipient of the Crisco award, proved to be the most outstanding girl in home economics.

Steve Baustian was recognized for his scientific achievement with the Bausch and Lomb award.

Joyce Fleischman took part in the A.I.C. Typing Contest in which she won first place in the Class III Electric division with 71 net words per minute on 5 minute tests. She also won the accuracy award in her division with no errors.

Gridders Pull Big Upsets

North Scott's football team ended its season with an impressive 6-2-1 record.

The season proved to be very exciting for the Lancer fans as the team pulled several upsets. The two big ones were against Dubuque Wahlert and Davenport Assumption.

The team was fortunate to be gifted with a strong running backfield which consisted of seniors Dave Moseley and Bill Holland, and sophomore Dave Listcher, Jan Evans, also a senior, was the fine quarterback who led the Lancers.

Coach Ray Oles' team boasted a strong defense which was able to contain its opponents to a minimum number of yards rushing and passing.

Coach Ray Oles congratulates John Moffit and Jan Evans who were honorary co-captains. Jan was also elected by the team as most valuable player.

Senior Dave Moseley gains big yardage in a key play against Davenport Assumption.

Dick Blanche (24) and Jack Davis (15) go for a loose ball as Tom Erps (82) comes in for the play.

Freshmen,

Lancer freshman and sophomore football teams finished the season with 6-2 and 5-4 records respectively. The sophomores, coached by Larry Lake and Jim Logan, boasted a strong offense with Jay Darland, Bernard Peeters, and Lee Friederichs.

The freshmen were beaten only by Davenport Assumption and Bettendorf. They were coached by Don Schmelzer and Ron Dalton.

Varsity Cagers

The record for the Lancers was nine wins and nine losses for the 1965-66 basketball season plus a tournament loss to Davenport West.

Lyndon Koberg led all scoring with a total of 207 points. His average was 15.2 points per game. Larry Busch boasted the highest field goal percentage, hitting 53 per cent.

This year's team was composed largely of seniors. The only juniors who saw a good deal of action were Larry Goettsch and Dan Weiskopf. Other seniors on the squad were John Moffit, Tom Erps, Dick Blanche, and Ron Kroeger.

Matmen Complete

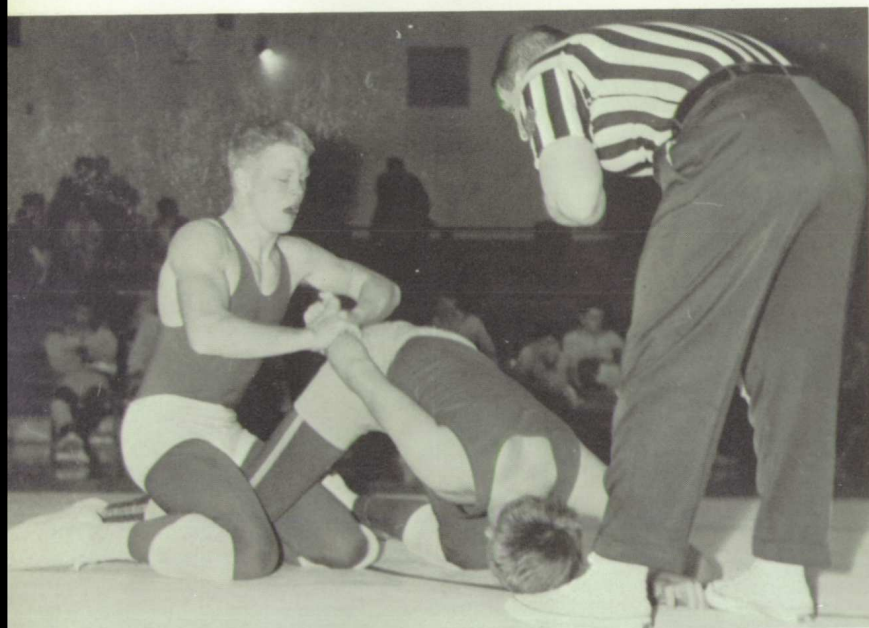

"Successful" and "exciting" are two words which could summarize the 1965-66 wrestling season at North Scott.

The Lancer matmen finished with an eye opening 12-2 record. Both of the losses were by narrow margins of only two or three points to Prairie and Bettendorf.

Decisive wins over Davenport Assumption, DeWitt Central, and Camanche were some of the high points of the season.

The team constantly found itself relying on its experienced upper weights which consisted of Larry Engler, 145 pounds; Dave Moseley, 154; Jan Evans 165; Dennis Schneckloth, 180; and Wayne Dengler, HWT.

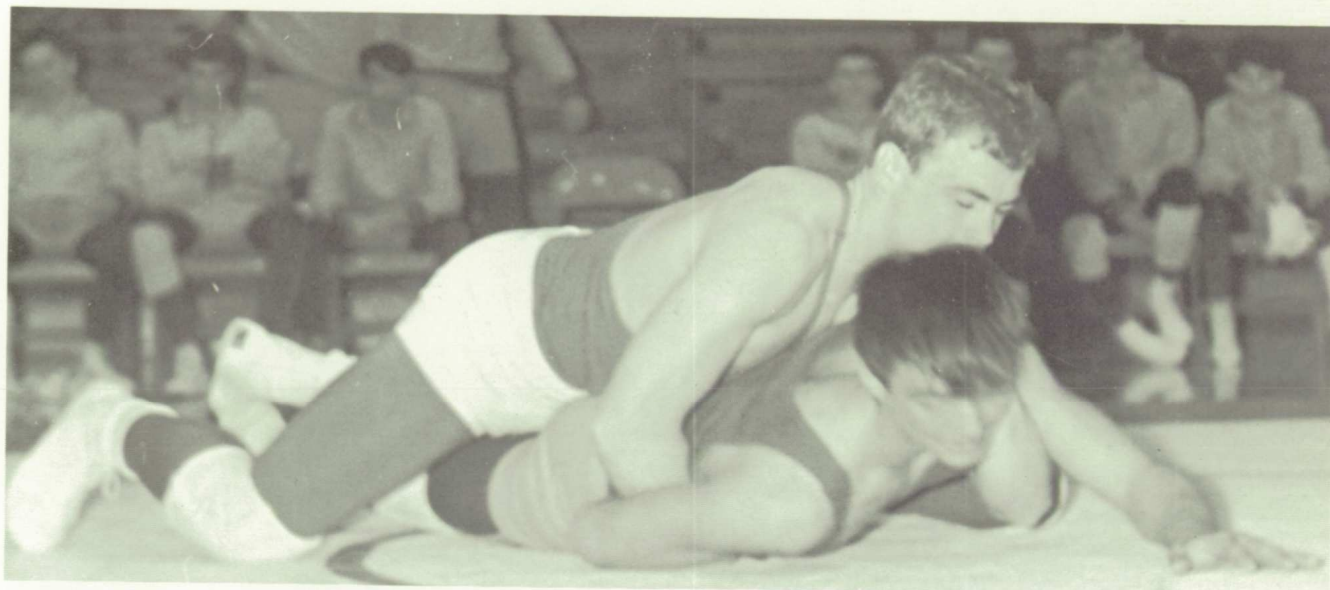

Two wrestlers who turned in impressive individual records were Dave Moseley, who was team captain, and Wayne Dengler. Dave ended the season with a 14-0 record while Wayne finished with a 12-0-1 slate.

Tracksters Join Class AA Ranks

Coach Ray Oles and his track crew were faced with a big task in the 1966 track season: That being to make the change of running in Class AA instead of the customary Class A in which the Lancers had fared so well in past years.

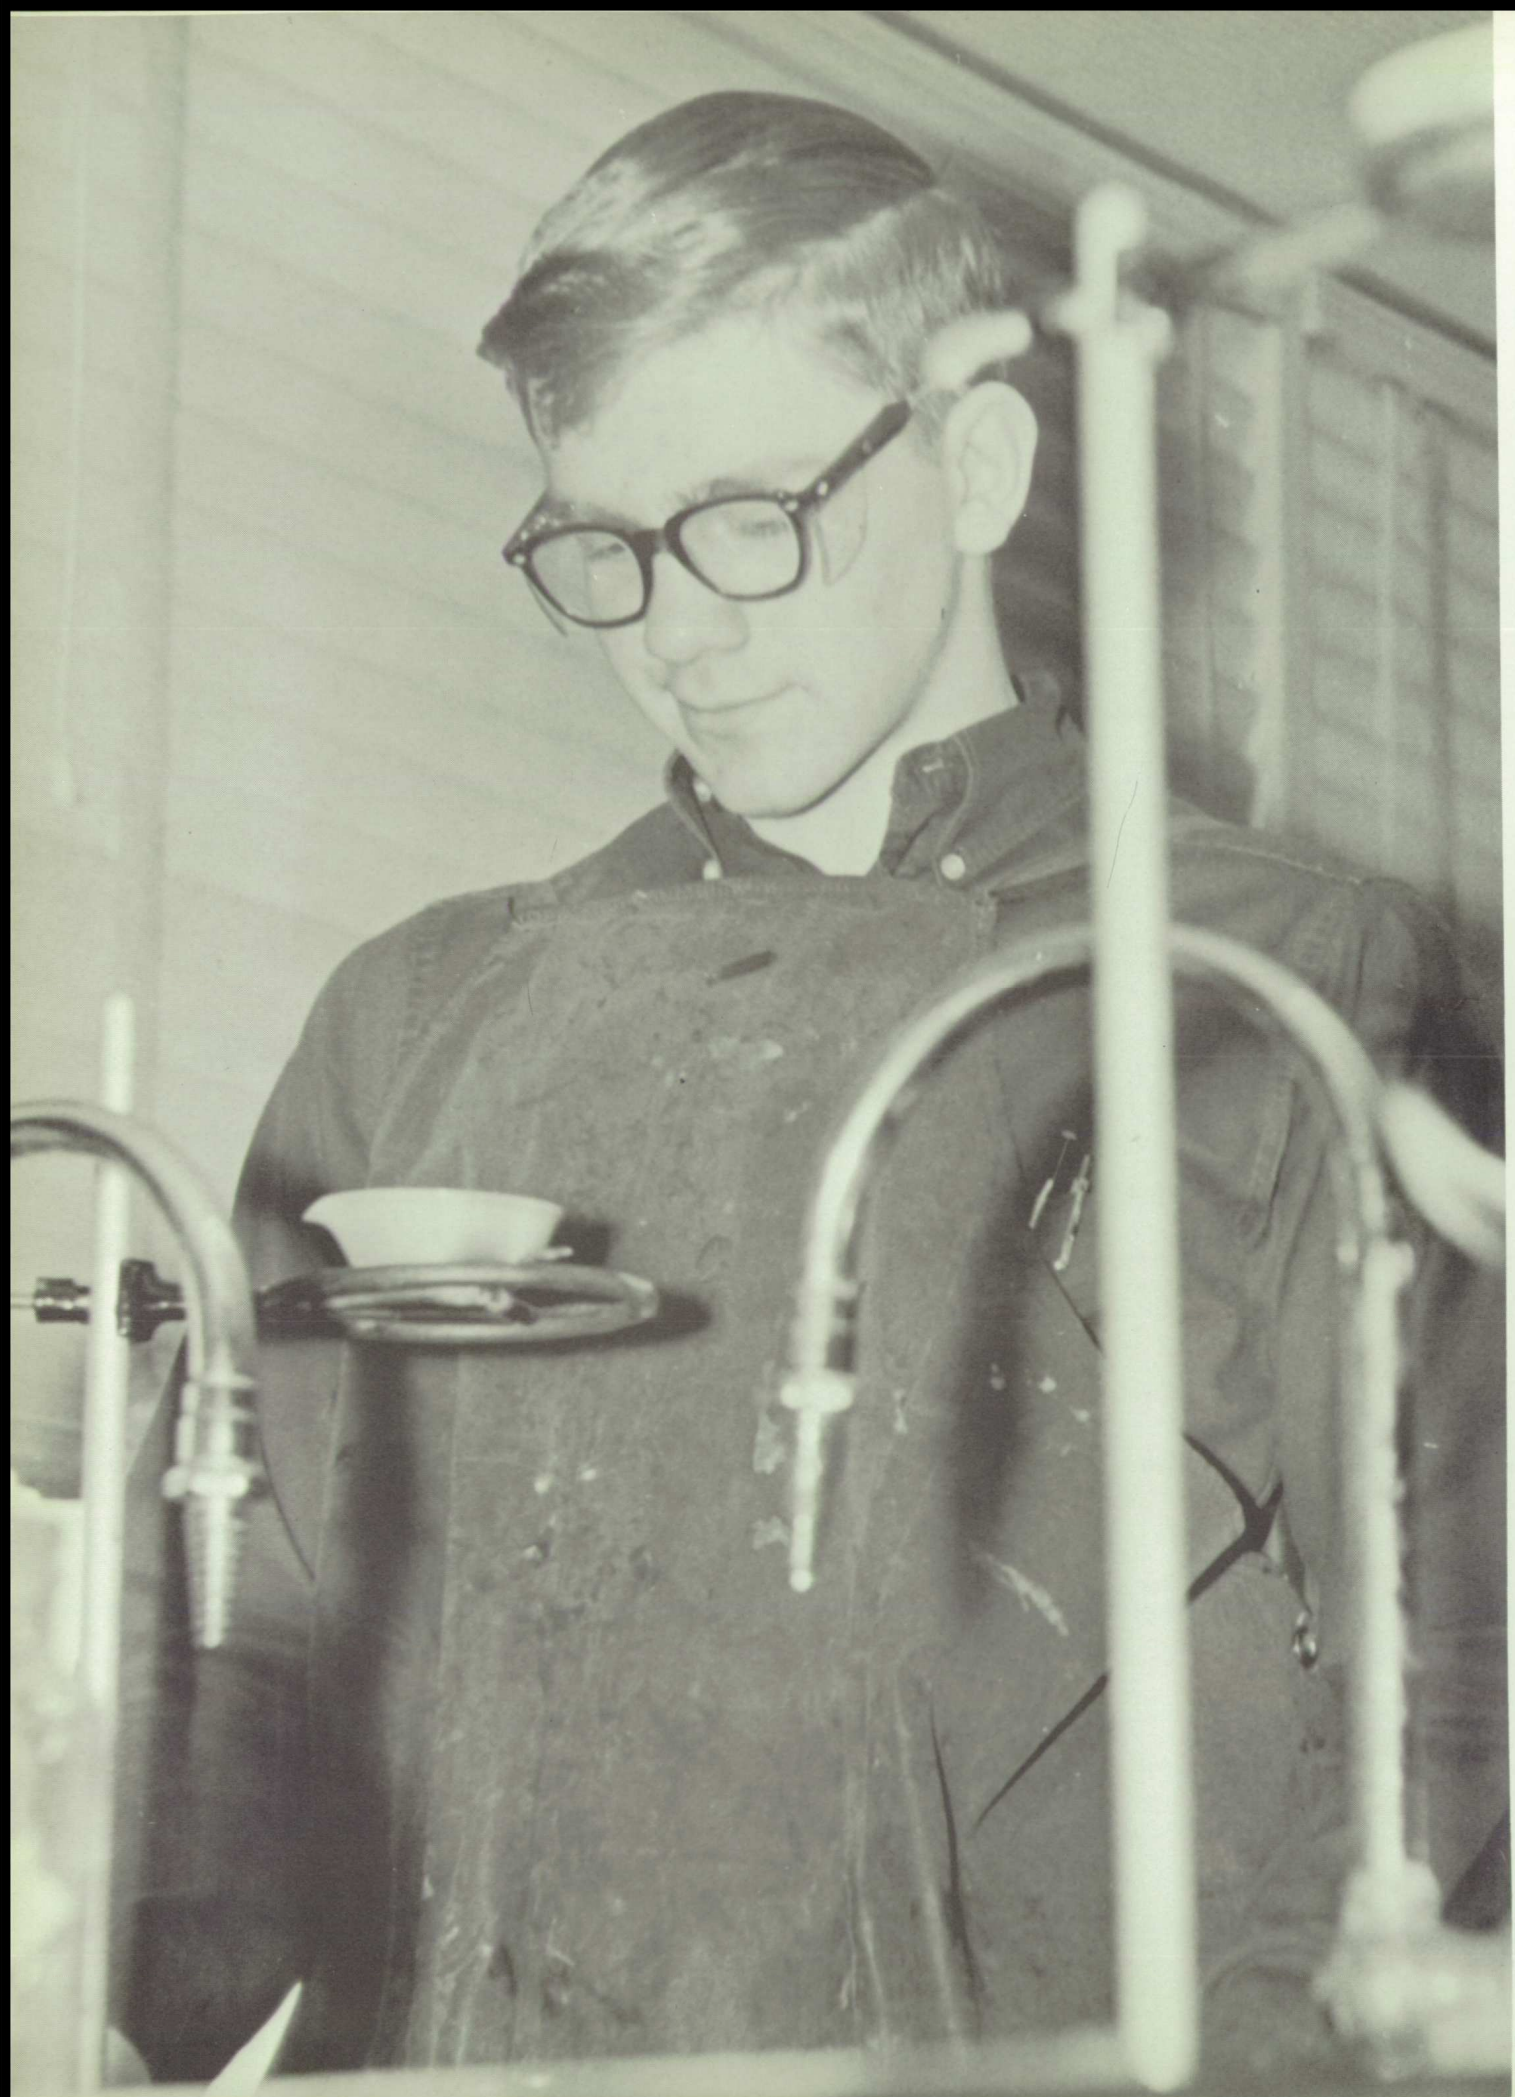

The Lancers found that running against such large schools as Davenport Central, Clinton, and Bettendorf, all of whom are tough track schools, stymied their chances of scoring effectively in meets.

In competing with schools nearer to their size, the thinclads' times, heights, and distances were more often in the placings. North Scott won the Lion Relays at Linn Mar and placed close seconds at the Tiger Relays and Davenport Relays.

Outstanding individuals were Bill Holland, the versatile sprinter and long jumper; Tom Erps, who tied the school record in the high hurdles; Dick Blanche, low hurdler; Dave Mohr, record holder in the pole vault and high jump; and Wayne Dengler, holder of the school discus record.

Since giving a persuasive speech was a required assignment, Suzanne Voelkers gives her sales pitch to convince her classmates of "Life."

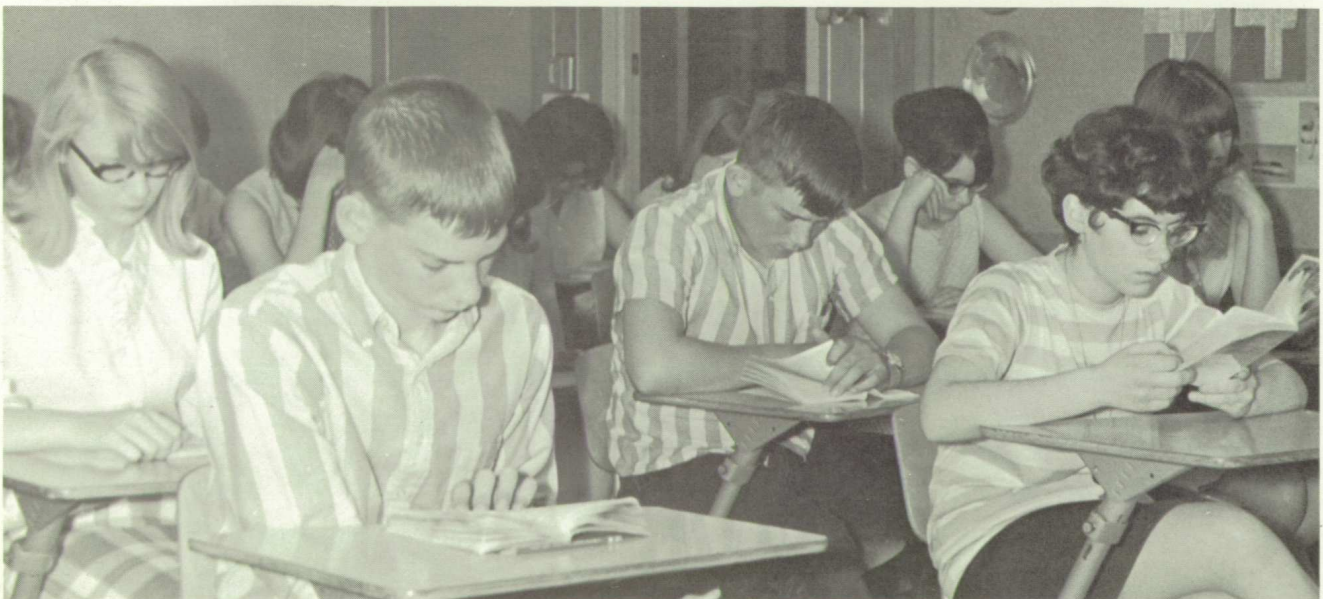

Creativeness in

"Friends, Romans, countrymen . . . How do I love thee, let me count the ways . . . Who so would be a man must be a non-conformist." These and other phrases can be heard throughout the year in the English classes.

English is needed by students to develop an acceptable manner of communication. This is done by the students first learning the fundamentals.

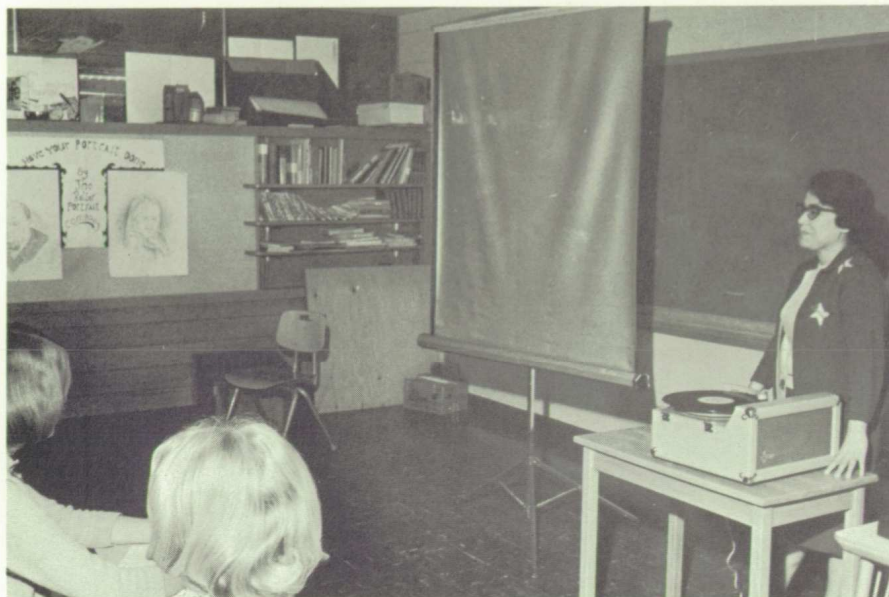

Advanced English deals mostly with American and English literature and authors. Through these the students obtain an understanding and appreciation for the various forms of literature.

Emphasis is especially placed on a student being able to think for himself and express his ideas in creative and critical writing habits.

Freshmen are found deeply absorbed in the book of their choice as they work at an English assignment.

Thought, Speech, Art Center of Humanities

With the help of slides and records, Mrs. Carmen Hughes helps her students gain a better understanding of the Spanish language.

In this age of air and space travel it is possible for people to travel farther and faster than ever before. Because of this nations are being drawn closer together and it is becoming more desirable for a person to speak several languages.

At North Scott, students have the opportunity to take two years of Spanish. The first year serves as an introduction to the Spanish language and to the people who speak it; during the second year Spanish becomes the main language of the classroom and English is spoken as little as possible.

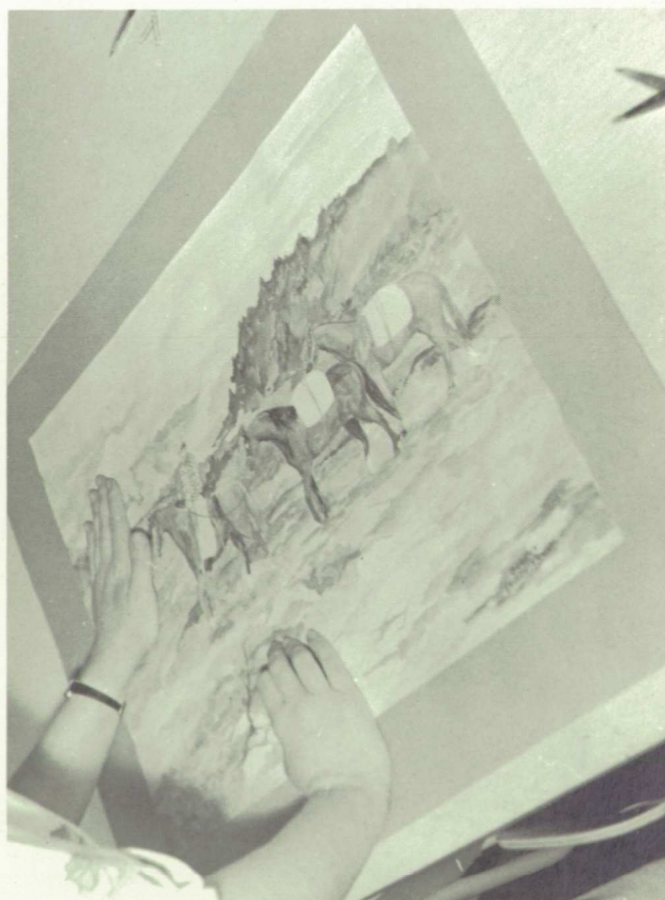

At the completion of Spanish II a two-week trip to Mexico is available. This trip is to give students a chance to use what they have learned and to see first-hand the customs and culture of the Mexican people.

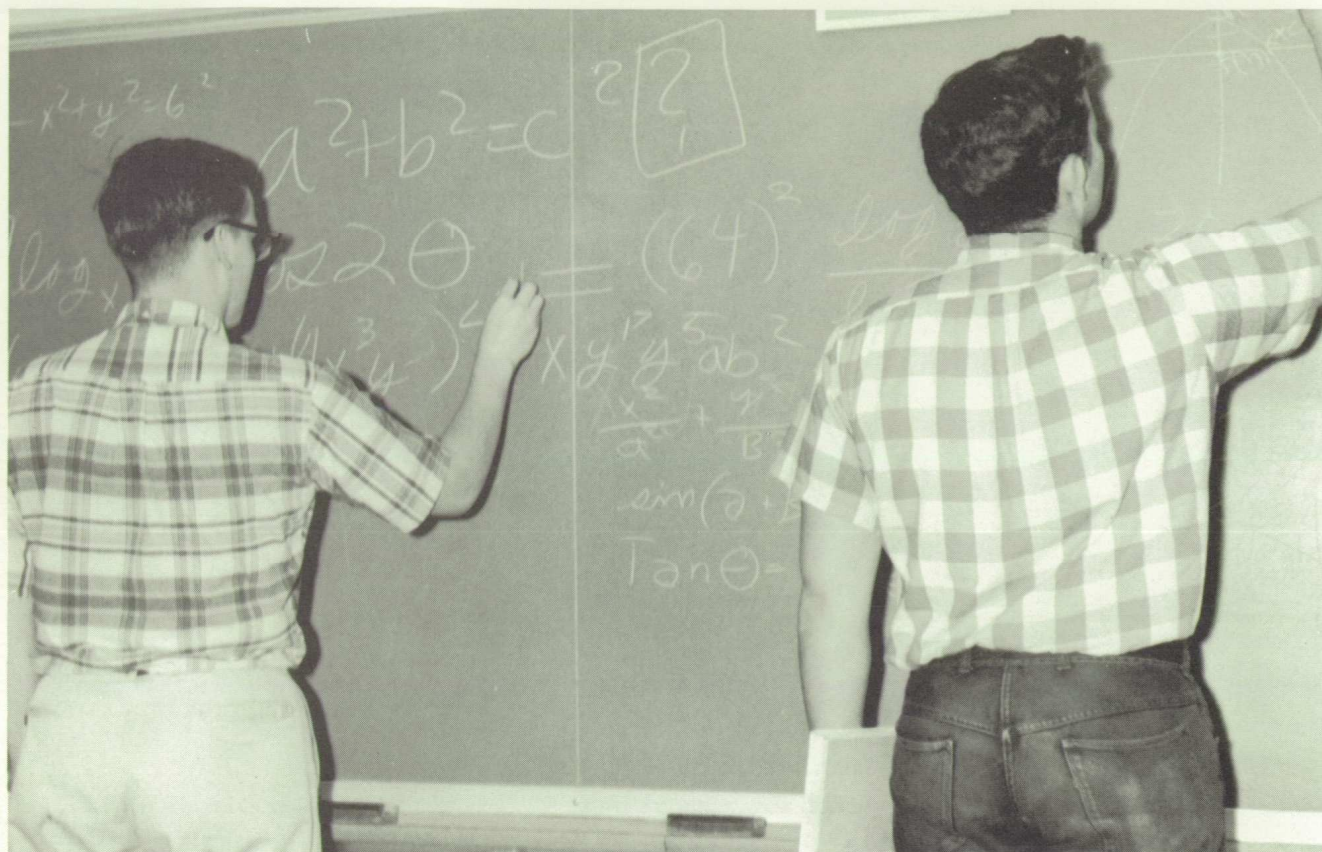

Many aspects of art are taught throughout the year including a variety of forms. Watercolor, sculpture, painting, mosaics, and lettering are a few examples of this.

The opportunity to enjoy creative activities in art is available to students through Mrs. Lucille Day, art instructor.

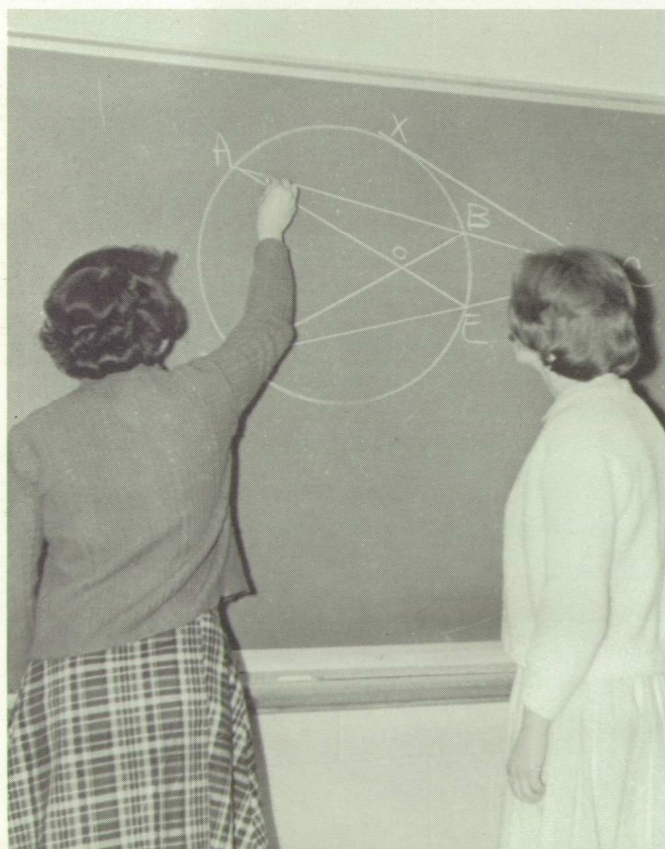

The first year the students may experiment with various project materials and tools. Art II, III, and IV contain advanced work in the student's chosen field.

The junior high music classes acquaint students with the fine arts by teaching music fundamentals and the compositions of such composers as Bach and Beethoven.

Gary Rochau and Mike McDaniel puzzle over an Algebra II problem.

Proving theories of secants, tangents, and chords is a basic concept of geometry.

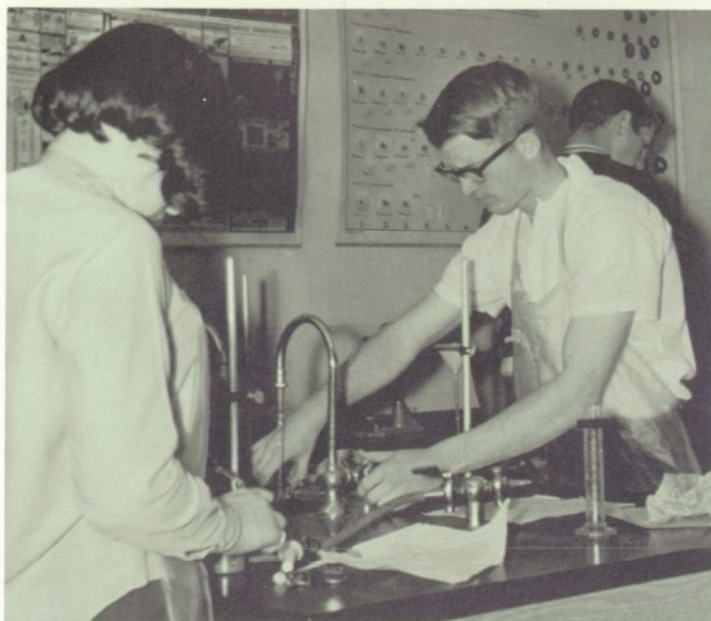

Science, Math

In the complex world of today math is of ever increasing importance. To accommodate this a wide range of courses is offered to North Scott students.

Algebra gives a different view of mathematics not possible with arithmetic. It is approached with modern theoretical concepts, whereas, geometry is a science of reasoning, not theory.

Typical of a first year college mathematics course is senior math. It consists of trigonometry, college algebra, and analytic geometry. This course is available to students who have completed two years of algebra and one year of geometry.

For those not interested in algebra or geometry, courses in business and general math are offered. These courses are primarily a review of basic mathematical operations needed for everyday practical application.

Anticipation among the chemistry students builds as they concoct a new experiment to stimulate the olfactory organs of the student body.

Teach Practicality

Mysterious odors and bubbling mixtures from the chemistry room along with jars of drosophila flies, cages of white rats, and the dissection of frogs in the biology room mark the science department.

Both the chemistry and biology classes involve themselves in various projects. To the chemistry students this means bi-weekly lab sessions where experiments with various chemicals take place. Whereas, the biology student uses the drosophila, more commonly known as the fruit fly, for the study of genetics. They even become surgeons as they operate on "guinea pigs"--white rats.

Throughout the year all science classes receive the benefits of visiting lecturers. These guest speakers choose topics on anything from the splitting of the atom to the making of microscopes. Such lectures are designed to develop the student's mind and cultivate his thinking.

The science classes themselves are devised to help students to understand the relationship of a changing cultural and social development by the use of lab sessions and lectures.

The usually frightening task of weighing a white rat is carried out by Peg Keehner as she prepares for her project in advanced biology.

The classes of Don Scott, social studies teacher, are often characterized by lively discussions brought about by thought-provoking questions.

Social Studies Builds World Awareness

From the time a student enters as a seventh grader until he graduates, he must be aware of the workings of a democracy as presented in the social studies program. Good citizenship is stressed throughout the curriculum.

Civics, world geography, and American and world history are emphasized during junior high. These same areas are stressed further in the sophomore, junior and senior years.

The ultimate aim of the social studies program is to help the student become aware of the current world, national, and local events and the effect they have on him. As a result, the student becomes aware of the social, economic, and political problems confronting the world and he learns how to face them constructively.

Carol Fischer, senior, presents an aspect of communism in a report to the history of communism class. This course is offered senior high students the second semester. It replaces geography which is taught during the first semester.

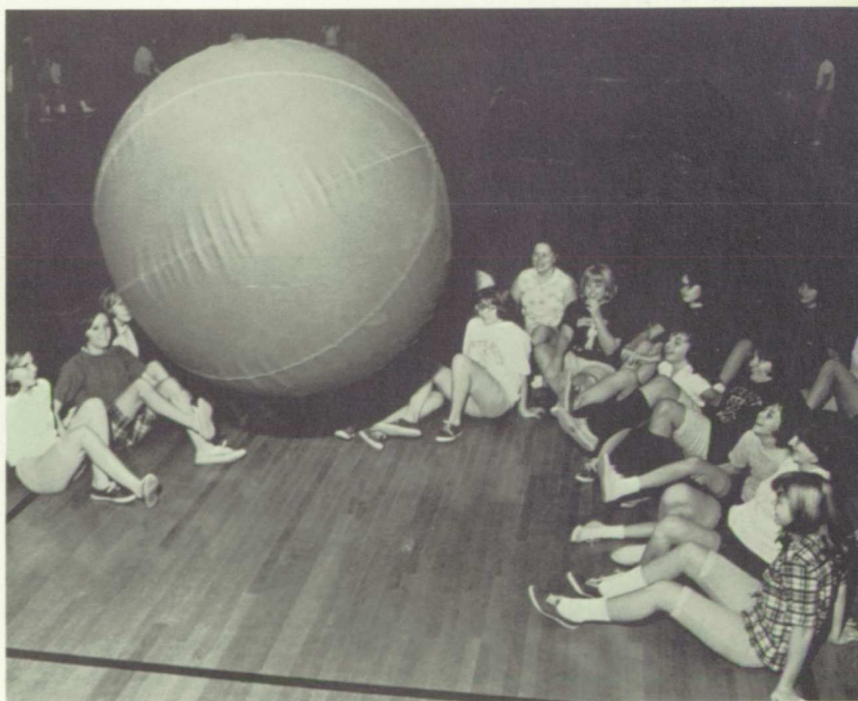

The "big green ball" provided vigorous competition for the physical education classes. Here the boys play pushball. The team which gets the ball across to the opponent's side earns a point.

Fun, Exercise Part of Gym Program

Training the body is just as important in a student's life as training the mind. Physical education strives to start the teenager toward a lifetime habit of regular exercise.

All students are required to take physical education each year they are enrolled in school. Scheduling varied so that students had either one or two classes each week.

Most remembered by the phys. ed. classes this year were the physical fitness tests. Other activities were basketball, football, kickball, volleyball, and whiffleball.

Cageball, played with an inflated ball approximately seven feet in diameter, gives the girls' legs a workout as they attempt to win points.

Homes and Office Work Concern Many

Quick minds and nimble fingers are developed in the business education department, making the students conscious of the ideals of service and of the principles of business conduct.

Bookkeeping, office practice, economics, business math, business law, general business, and typing prepare students for a business career.

Shorthand knowledge leads to a better job in the business world. Bonnie Dalton transcribes with the help of Carol Paus-tian.

Proficiency in typing is needed to prepare for the world of business.

As They Prepare for Future

Sewing, foods, marriage and the family, and home nursing are the basics for preparing future homemakers to think objectively in terms of the well-being of themselves and others.

Concentration for the year in foods classes is placed on how to preserve and use all types of food. However, to meet with the rapidly changing world of today the management of time, money, and nutrition is studied.

Girls in sewing class learn the benefits of clothes that are attractive and fit well. Recognition for their time and effort is given when the girls present the annual spring style show.

Living with their present family to raising well-adjusted children are the topics explored in marriage and the family to help senior girls in preparing for the responsibility of caring for a home and family.

The construction of a dress is one of the requirements to complete the course in Sewing I.

Making barbecue sauce, Carole Faley and Christie Horstmann make advance preparation for a home economics cook-out.

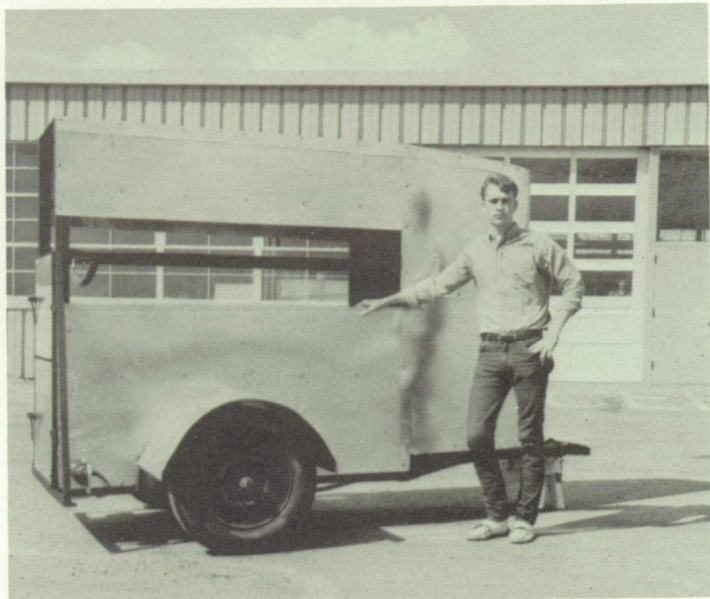

Juicy, mouth watering, charcoal grilled steaks are being prepared by fifth period foods class for the annual steak cook-out.

Market Contest Winner Tops Voag Activities

Vocational agriculture is a four year course of study for students who desire to take advantage of their farm background.

It has been broadened to serve the needs of those going into the many agriculturally related fields, those going on to college in some area of agriculture, and those returning to the farm.

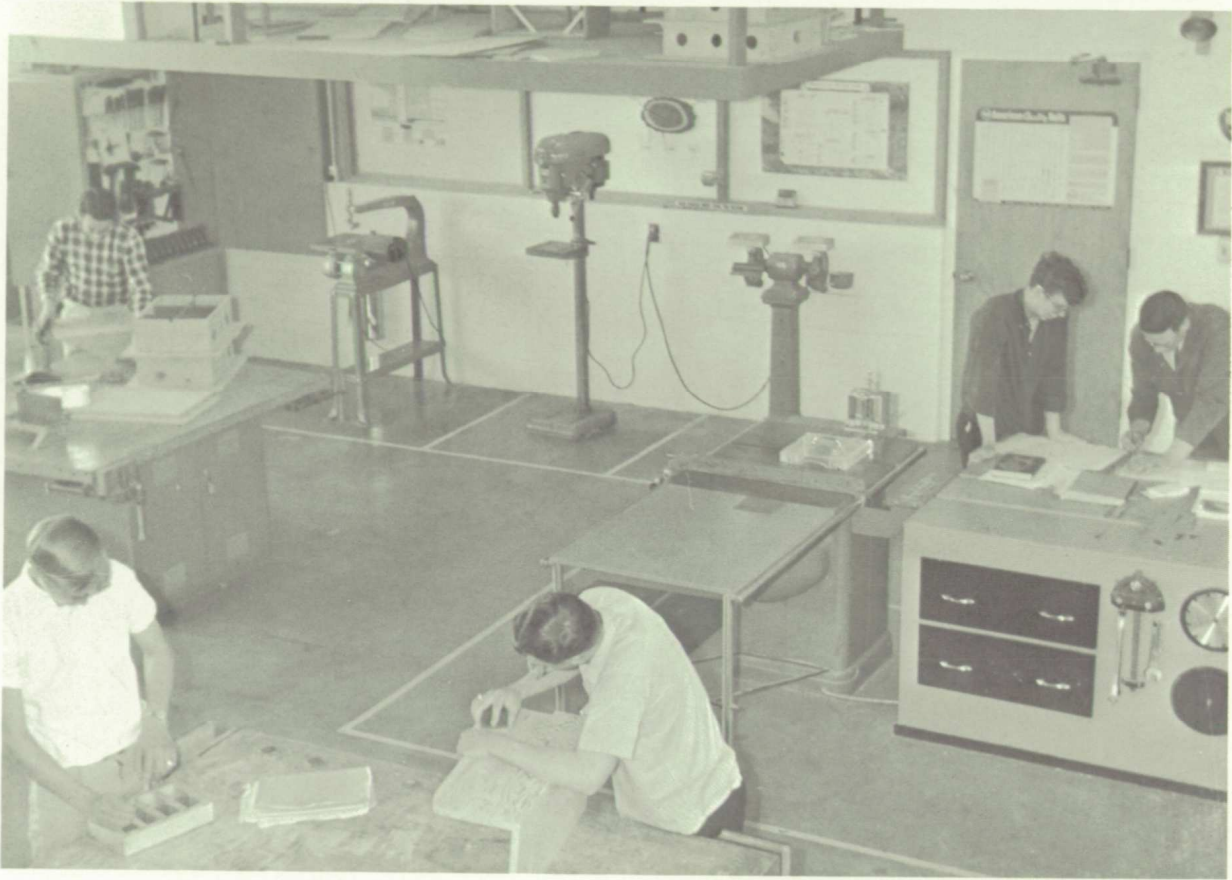

As a class project, Bill Stahmer built a horsetrailer during his shop time in voag.

Receiving congratulations from William Marsh, voag teacher, is Quentin Clark, winner of the Market Contest.

In the workshop several students are busy at their various woodworking projects.

Boys Learn Basic Industry Skills

Woodworking, metalworking, electricity, and drawing mark the industrial arts department. Students learn about industrial processes and develop a knowledge of metals, tools, safety practices, and industrial hand skills.

Since metal working is the backbone of modern industry, it is one of the more important areas of industrial arts. This course is designed to give the student an insight into industrial organization and production.

Basic to the study of industrial arts is drafting. It is involved in all areas of industry as the medium through which ideas are transferred to material.

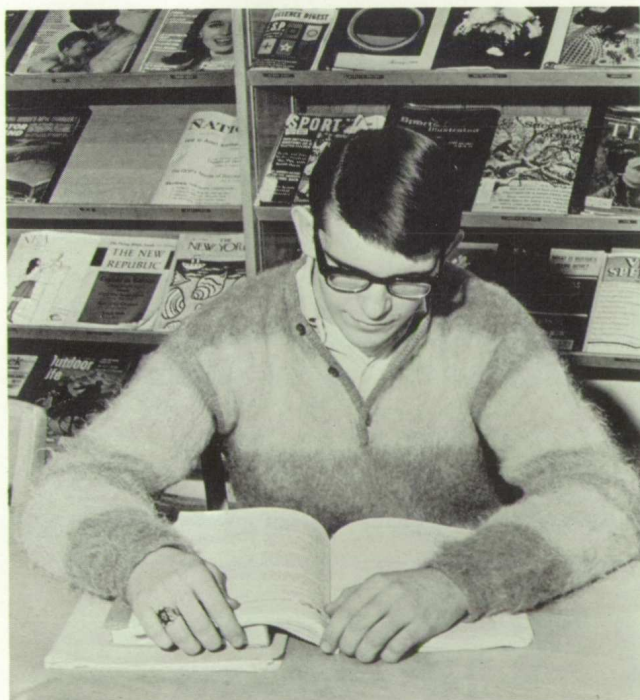

Gordon Goettsch uses the band saw to aid him in building one of his projects.

Students Study or Relax in Library

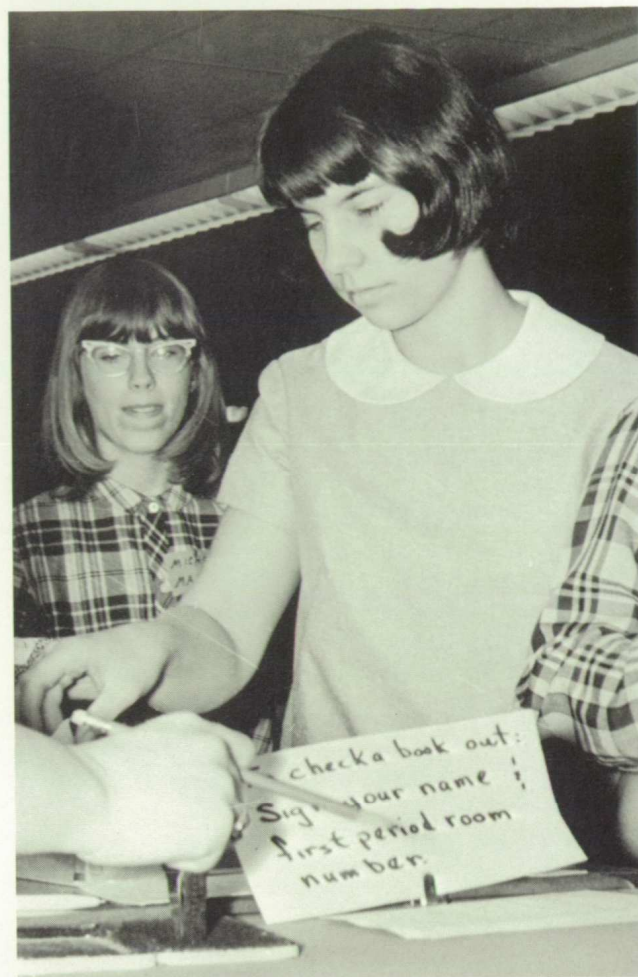

A library, according to Webster's dictionary, is a place where a collection of books for study or reading is kept; but to the students of North Scott it is a great asset when term paper time rolls around. Or it can be just a place to relax and read a book or magazine when homework is finished.

To accomplish this there are over 7,000 books available and 11 sets of encyclopedias. For enjoyment or reference reading the library subscribes to 6 newspapers and 77 magazines.

New books are ordered because of good reviews or because of student and teacher requests. Approximately 600 books are added each year.

Senior Dave Moseley momentarily resists temptation to read one of the many editions on the magazine rack as he takes a last look at his chemistry notebook.

Checking out books is a privilege utilized by most students in the school.

The card catalogue being used by library assistant, Linda Hamann, is an asset to finding books quickly.

In Francis Fuhs' junior high guidance class, a game of chess is used as a means of serious concentration.

Required Courses Guide and Drive

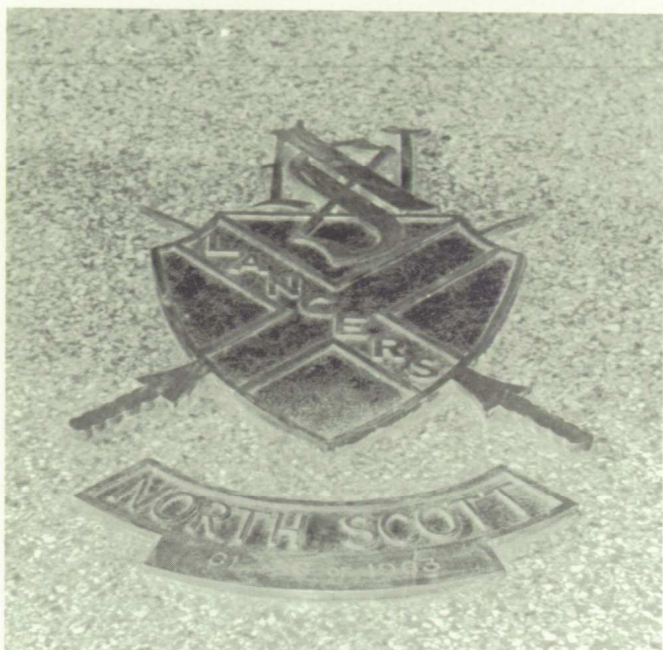

Driver education is a one semester course required for graduation. This course includes 30 hours of classroom instruction and 6 hours of actual driving time in order to help students develop skills required for safe driving. The overall objective of driver education is to make students aware of the relationship between a driver's physical, mental, and emotional characteristics and his ability to operate a car safely.

Guidance is a required course for sophomores. The course is primarily to help students begin to formulate future educational and vocational plans, and to help them develop and improve their ability to obtain and use educational and occupational material. The guidance plan itself is to help students realize that individuals differ and to achieve, as a result of this, a more complete understanding of themselves and the people with whom they associate.

Mrs. Amelia Thiede, senior high guidance counselor, helps students to prepare for future.

Bring About Many Changes

Beginning the construction of four new elementary buildings was an important milestone for the North Scott Community School District this year. Schools will be erected at four sites located in Donahue, Eldridge, Long Grove, and Princeton.

Another innovation was the adoption of a reading program at the junior and senior high school levels. Better comprehension and speed are two aims of the reading improvement program. At the elementary level, a school nurse, library assistant, and teacher aides were added.

BACK ROW: Keith Benjamin, adviser; Mary Alyea, Madonna Strobbe, Suzanne Voelkers, Connie Marten, Bonnie Dalton, Sharon Krenz, Janis Feldpausch.

of Smooth Operation

Working in an office requires a cool head and the ability to do many things. Answering the telephone, typing letters, filling out admit slips, running errands, and collecting fees are just a few things the office secretaries do. In addition they have to remain calm when the office is jammed with students.

Preparing for office work are the workshop girls, directed by Keith Benjamin. These seniors gain experience in using office equipment by typing tests, worksheets, questionnaires, and letters for teachers.

Library assistants learn some office procedure by daily checking out books, shelving books, typing new cards and then filing them in the card catalogue.

Another area of office work, the daily attendance sheets, are handled by the school nurse who is also on call for sprains, bruises, sore throats, or any other "calamity."

Cooks, Custodians

Services provided by the cooks and custodial staff are those which are often taken for granted. Students fail to realize the careful planning and preparation that goes into their daily noon meal, along with the maintenance of the classrooms and school grounds.

Antoinette DeCock, right, assists the head cook and dietician, Myra Lantau, in preparing a student's favorite meal, pizza.

Fern Holtz finds that making sandwiches for an entire school is no simple task.

After all the lunches have been served, Marion Kelley starts to clean up the kitchen.

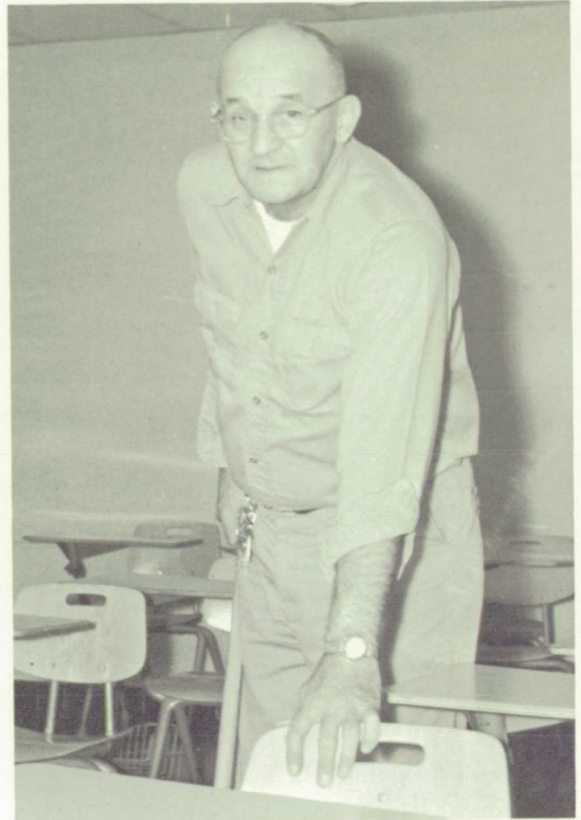

Beginning the preparation of meals starts early in the morning for Edna Marshall.

Provide Services Daily

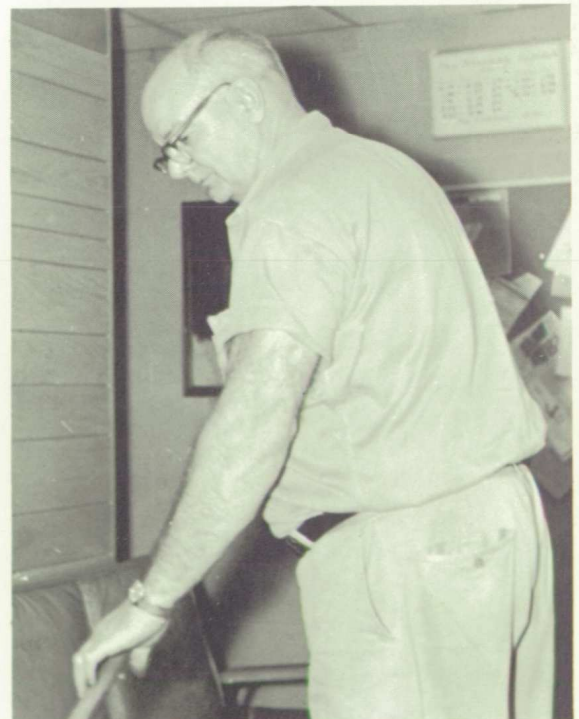

Bernard Frimmel, superintendent of building and grounds, finishes up his chore of mopping the halls for the day.

Sweeping littered floors and straightening desks keeps Ralph Madden busy.

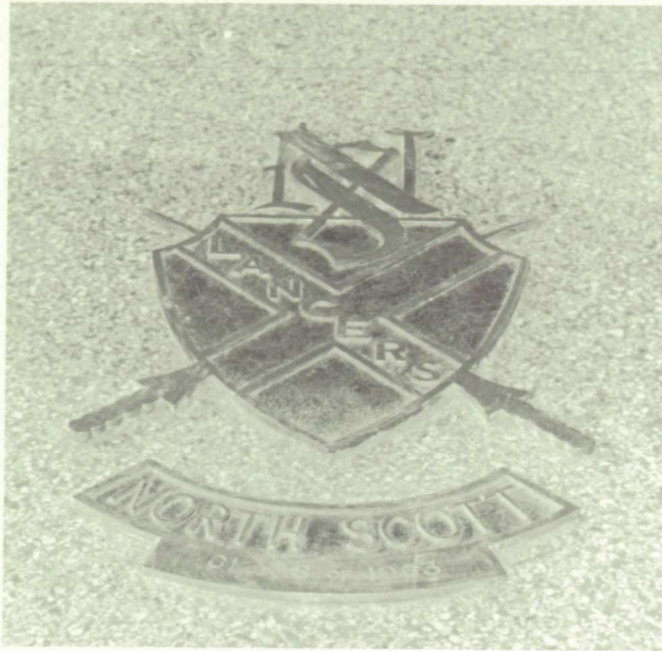

Martin Anderson cleans the floors of classrooms after school.

In preparation for the coming day Ed Bethurum cleans the faculty room.

CLASSES

Admiring trophies their class members had a hand in winning are the senior class officers: Jan Evans, secretary; Patti Frye, treasurer; Donovan Peeters, president; and Deanna Oster, vice-president.

Flags, Trophy Case Class Gift

The annual senior picnic was held at Eagle Point Park in Clinton.

Excitement mounts as the seniors practice for graduation.

After four years of high school, the senior class of 1966 have many memories to be cherished. Among those memorable activities, the high school diploma seemed to be the greatest highlight of all, for finally the seniors have something to show for their time and efforts through the years.

In remembrance of the class of '66, a collection of conference flags and an extension of the trophy case were given to the school.

With the diploma in one hand and new ideas in the other, the class of '66 will attempt to fulfill their goals.

Juniors Plan Busy Year

Studying the rings received this year are the junior class officers, Mary Lou Wuestenberg, vice-president; Julie Beert, treasurer; Linda Gronewold, secretary; and Barb Wulf, president.

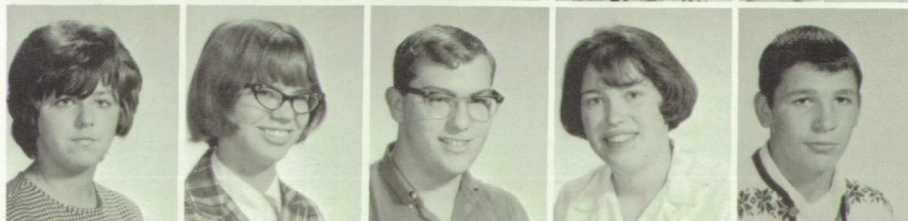

The officers' big job this year was to organize plans for raising money and appointing committees for the 1966 Prom. "Swiss Chalet," the theme of the Prom, transformed the gymnasium into a mountainous wonderland with lakes and a waterfall. The decorations were highlighted with a chalet, a huge mountain, and a large Swiss flag that covered the complete stage.

Senior high casual day, May 13, gave students a chance to enjoy a day's comfort and to exhibit individualism. Bermudas, cut-offs, and slacks were suitable attire and most students paired these with sweatshirts, T-shirts and blouses. Sandals and old tennis shoes completed most outfits. Here three astonished sophomores, Linda Mohr, Doris Schnekloth, and Barb Hansen, prepare to leave school after a leisurely day of classes.

Congratulations to "You"

CLASS OF '66

You've now passed an important milestone in preparation for adult life. Where you go from here will depend in great part upon careful planning, hard work, and a continuing effort to improve.

Planning for the future is part of our business, too. We are continually improving our facilities and procedures to help assure adequate, dependable gas and electric service.

BEST OF LUCK IN THE YEARS AHEAD

yours for better living
